Wrangell Is In The Very Front Rank

In going to or from the mining prospects or developed areas one passes by and through the timber that covers the whole of Southeastern Alaska. It is one vast forest—not all merchantable timber but here and there patches that will hand log 100,000 feet upward, and for the most part these logs can be dropped directly into salt water.

The timber comprises spruce, hemlock, red and yellow cedar. The spruce is used mostly for building purposes. Hemlock is the best for finishing as it does not shrink even if put in wet. It makes the best piling. Red cedar is used for boatbuilding and shingles. These go from this point everywhere for the quality gives this product preference.

There are various mills located in this section and others are promised. Those that are in commission have all the business that they can handle with their present equipment.

All this promises well for the logger for it insures him a market for his product and the best possible prices. A hand logger can make from $3.00 per day up, many making $5.00 which is considered good pay.

Then there is logging the yellow cedar—one of the finest timbers anywhere—good for making the finest furniture and decorating. It is much sought after and mills pay an exceptionally high price for good logs. But this timber is generally a little way from salt water and it cost more to log, takes a bigger plant and so no systematic effort has been made to secure this valuable wood. But some one will come spying out the land and see this neglected opportunity and make several fortunes out of the chance.

Petersburg Notes

The municipal campaign is attracting little attention at Petersburg, and the possibilities are that difficulty will be experienced in getting seven men to accept the offices. A majority of the present council has gone on record that they would not consider renomination.

Court Commissioner Miller has tendered his resignation both as judge and manager of the company mill, and will go south shortly after the first of the month. A. T. Bennett, formerly at the Wrangell mill will have charge in Mr. Miller's place.

The Firemen's dance on St. Patrick's day was a complete success. Of course there was rather a shortage of the fair sex, but everybody got busy and had a good time anyway.

There promises to be a fight begun here on the saloons. It appears that according to law, a saloon cannot be conducted within 100 feet of a building used for religious gatherings. Somebody has gotten busy lately and has made the discovery that both of the local saloons are within that distance of the Salvation Army hall, and the probabilities are that an attempt will be made to stop both securing a renewal of their licences.

PETERSBURGER.

The Ramona surprised herself and everybody else in town Tuesday evening by arriving eight or nine hours ahead of time on her way south.

Joe Ensley, who had been in the grip of The Grip for several days is out again.

Dr. Mathis is on his way up river to Telegraph, whither he goes on a still hunt for business.

"Jack" McGehee has had his gasboat completely overhauled.

Sam Kincaid is having a great deal of trouble with the finger his dog bit a couple of weeks or so ago. The wound refuses to heal, and he had to have a piece of bone removed this week.

Work on the new wharf is progressing finely. A bit of hard luck was experienced lately when the pile driver went ashore high and dry.

Word comes from Juneau that Henry Shattuck has resigned as Clerk of Court. There are about a dozen Juneauites with lightning rods up their backs waiting for the lightning in the shape of the job to strike 'em.

Nineteen Candidates For Town Councilmen

It looks as though there were going to be no difficulty in getting candidates for Town Councilmen. As the names of no less than 19 have been mentioned as likely timber. There will probably be at least two tickets in the field, besides one or two independents who will paddle their own canoes. The names suggested thus far are P. C. McCormack, Donald Sinclair, Ed. Weber, F. Matheson, James Wheeler, Chas. Nelson, Nels Ronneg and Al Osborn whom are mentioned as Regulars, while the Insurgents are F. C. Miles, Nels Moen, Dr. Shurick, T. J. Case, Joe Ensley, "Mickey" Prescott, Al Spader, Bert Tucker, Hans Nelson and Adolph Engstrom, while Wm. Lewis will probably appear on both tickets.

The point at issue of course is the management of the water system. The Regulars are credited with the statement that all is being done with the system that is possible at this time, while the Insurgents are not backward as a rule in saying that such is not the case.

A plan of increasing the taxation of the town for a couple or three years for the purpose of putting the water system on a cash basis has been proposed, which meets with the approval apparently of the greater number of the town's taxpayers.

Then again, there seems to be an idea prevalent that the town should make water connections free of charge for consumers, and that the water rates should be overhauled.

The caucus for the purpose of nominating candidates will be held next Wednesday evening, and it promises to be an interesting one.

There is to be a nomination for School Clerk at the same time as

The local shingle mill will soon start in full blast and there are rumors that another mill will make Wrangell its shipping point. The local shingle mill has never in the past been able to supply the demand and the market to the westward has never been sought. There will be demand for all the shingles both of the present and new plant. The only competition being how much better stock can be supplied.

Keep up the standard to the highest point and boost shingles for Wrangell, and then boost for all the things we have.

There are natural resources in plenty scattered through this section and the water power lying idle is something enormous. One of our friends who is with us again (they all come back to Wrangell to make a stake) said that if we only harnessed all the water power to windmills we could blow away the moisture when we wanted to do so and so we could have actual control of the climate and with the care of money getting in all ways this would be the money getting center of our great empire of Alaska.

But joking aside—strangers are looking about and making ready to file claims on the most available places where water can be used for power. It will prove of untold wealth in the future, and its uses, who can tell the limit thereof?

Some of us will wake up by and by when the most of these easily acquired and valuable assets have been gobbled up and wonder why we never thought of them.

Get in—get busy—get your share of the good things that are going begging, but don't try to keep others out. Get hold of some good thing and get capital to exploit it to its utmost advantage. If you don't know where to find the capital there are men right here who have it or know just about what can be done. Don't ask too high a price for your interest, take a very reasonable sum and you will reap a further share in the general prosperity.

A party brought in a sample of the very finest white marble that has been found so far in Alaska. It is a good sized deposit and will take the finest polish, an article that will sell itself.

Last fall a lot of ruby sand was brought in and there was gold in it. On looking up the source of gold a large gold bearing reef was found and from the looks of things there is enough gold to pay to crush. Water power is plentiful right at hand. A short story but one that can be duplicated most any time when anyone really gets in a mood for work.

What have you found? bring in your items so that the people at large may learn something of what we have stored away in our hills and vales.—Contributed.

A new wharf is being constructed at Sulzer. The old one collapsed recently.

THE thief comes prepared—prepared to take your valuables. Carries the necessary tools. Is expert in their use. One of his tools is the revolver. In plain words, he is prepared to take your life. His deadly intent and expertness makes up for his revolver's awkwardness and slowness.

You have neither expertness or deadly intent. You cannot afford to stake everything upon a wrist-straining, trigger-flinching, slow-as-molasses firearm. Settle this matter to-day for the sake the councilmanic nominations are made. Thus far this paper has failed to hear of any name suggested, all though there is a report that one of the local ministers is making himself rather officious in his attempt to secure the nomination of someone who would no doubt conduct the school along lines to be suggested by "his reverence." This attempted mixture of church and school will hardly meet with the approval of Wrangell's voters.
